

Friends of Georgia's Cities

For more than 75 years, the Georgia Municipal Association has served as the advocate for cities, with an understanding that healthy, viable cities are essential to the state's continued growth and prosperity. A voluntary, non-profit, non-partisan organization, GMA seeks to build stronger cities by providing municipal governments and their officials with the tools and resources they need to be more effective, efficient and responsive.

While legislative advocacy will always be its core mission, the Association also provides training, research, legal assistance, insurance and retirement programs, equipment financing and various consulting services to its 500 member cities. GMA also sponsors two statewide conferences each year – the Annual Convention, held in June in Savannah, and Mayors' Day, held in January in Atlanta – as well as numerous district level meetings, workshops and policy discussions for city officials.

Your company can help support GMA's efforts to strengthen cities, and at the same time raise your profile with elected and appointed municipal officials, by becoming an official Friend of Georgia's Cities. This program is designed to meet the needs of companies that do business with, and need to know what's going on in, Georgia's cities and towns. Your participation can also provide the edge your business needs in the competitive municipal marketplace of products and services. The annual fee is $750.
